The planetary constant: the real Zeitgeist
(28.october.2011)

It is obvious that the real rules of world society operate completely independently of their creators, that is, in relation to how we personally judge or understand them, because it is precisely the irrational traditions of world interpretations that shape and shape it in ways that are increasingly incomprehensible to the inhabitants of the earth. True, for some, sometimes more pleasantly so.

These invisible and incomprehensible laws are shaped by the unconscious social homeostasis of evolutionarily conditioned hominid populations, i.e. by the Brownian motion of the amoebasocium, and by the historically always identical types of social network formation and their respective false interpretations, in a manner identical to the fractal structures of nature..

And of course in impressive "richness": in the "heyday" of the Indian caste system, there were nearly 2,000 separate castes and the number of Indian „communities” (jati) that allowed and named only inter-group marriage is estimated at around 6,000...

When the participating individuals in this feedback Moebius "bath of experience" system formulate their accumulated existential-typological experiences - compulsively - in the language of a mythology (Veda-Torah-Bible-Harry Potter) that swells from the individual to the collective narrative , and not in the framework of a sociometric analysis of a google-sized sociological sample (the existence of which is also completely illusory), there, personal and collective reflections and visions of the future, given and constructed in response to the turns of history, are always, by definition, false.

This, of course, qualifies the current abilities of the earthlings and their generational inherited and then artificially maintained of false consciousness

For example, there is something incredibly distorted and globally miserable about the fact that while for years gyroscopes capable of measuring gravitational waves have been used to navigate nuclear submarines, the US Navy, for example, is mandatory by Christian fundamentalism, eucharist and faith.

They manage their nuclear technology and satellites according to the collectively disciplining and ethical values of this belief, and then deploy them against the rest of the world.

The "monas" or "holon-sphere" of the world is of course very rich and therefore some might legitimately argue that the science of gravitational waves and the existence of God are not mutually exclusive. This may be logical in their case, which is why they are building nuclear submarines to serve only their God-blessed "nation" against other people/worlds.

It may be human, but the world we live in always needs an explanation. Since earthly existence has been lucrative for only a few, what is needed for the subjugated majority are disciplining ideologies - produced by the network structure of the socium, its self-movement and its Gödelian regulation - that rewrite the all-time zero starting line of the human destiny books and give "meaning" to the miserable earthly existence proclaimed as transitory.

Therefore there are many things in heaven and earth which are wonderful, but there is none more wonderful than so many Saviours.

To wriggle out of the collective swamp we are trapped in; some of these obsolete but always relevant human ecological experiences were already interpreted centuries ago by the less naive European economist-philosophers (e.g. the heroes of the F.Bacon - A.Smith - K.Marx - N.D.Kondratyev - Tibor Liska axis) in Europe, who tried to describe the future evolution of liberation, sorry to say with the results they achieved.

Thank you very much to some of them

However, a continental database of visions and scientific experiments of world-changing has been created (Big Data), unique in earthly societies, which can be compared to the thousands of years old typological database of traditional Chinese medicine.

But today, this is proving to be insufficient: the European accumulation of intellectual capital is losing the game to the Zeitgeist-type algorithms of the positive, but (compulsively?) Hollywood cliché-ridden "Salvations"

The all-time erosion of social systems ripens the subsequent enlightenment of its inhabitants.

Or not...

But here, despite the accumulation of all the existing literature and databases of European social science, sometimes of dubious value, accumulated centuries earlier, it seems that only the small enlightenment of the newly awakening so-called "American people" can lead to the slow (social and ecological) transformation of the world.

Because it has a wayang manipulated media interface, among other things.

The conclusions drawn from the publication of the Jekyll Island Agreement (1910), which established the Federal Reserve System (FED): 1913), or even the fact of the almost century-long collection of the income tax missing from the US Constitution (since 1913), or even the controversy surrounding the WTC, what is going on in the "minds" of this totally manipulated and dumbed-down naive nation today says everything about the current and prevailing level of consciousness on our planet.

Like their (nationwide consiousness) films, i.e. the recapitalisation of an artificial false consciousness

But these are only points of detail, for at the moment another false media surface of this previously characterised "homo-sapiens" algortimus obscures the legitimacy of other historical eliminations reckoning of similar magnitude.

Ad interim ? We hope so.

Whether in fact the Zeitgeist (then the "nuit debout") generation, forced by socio-evolutionary feedback, is writing a truly better (i.e. a sustainable "socio-econometric") chapter of history, this the next Saviour does not know.
